Responsibilities

In my role as Finance Manager at IMEC, I work at the intersection of data analytics, finance, and operational compliance while focusing on programs and initiatives that support IMEC’s mission to ignite Illinois manufacturing excellence and global competitiveness.

I have spent over 10 years working across different industries and with distinct leadership teams to rethink how organizations leverage data and technology for the purposes of financial modeling, contract execution and monitoring, and analytics tracking and reporting. With my help, organizations have realized quantifiable efficiencies, enhanced business intelligence, and implemented stronger process controls.

Prior to starting my professional career, I grew up in my family’s factory in central Illinois. That experience embedded within me an understanding of the challenges manufacturers face, the sense of pride a person feels when making a product that satisfies a customer’s need, and the understanding that relationships drive results.
